The Metropolitan Museum of Art • Iris and B. Gerald Cantor Roof Garden

Héctor Zamora (Mexican, born Mexico City, 1974) will create a site-specific installation for The Met's Iris and B. Gerald Cantor Roof Garden, the eighth in a series of commissions for the outdoor space, which boasts stunning views of Central Park and Manhattan.

Zamora is known for works that engage public spaces and the built environment. In his practice, Zamora reinvents and redefines conventional exhibition spaces, generating friction between the common roles of public and private, exterior and interior, organic and geometric, real and imaginary.

The Roof Garden Commission series was established in 2013 by the Department of Modern and Contemporary Art. The series of site-specific commissions on The Iris and B. Gerald Cantor Roof Garden has recently featured work by Adrián Villar Rojas (2017), Huma Bhabha (2018), and most recently, Alicja Kwade (2019).

The Facade Commission

https://www.metmuseum.org/exhibitions/listings/2021/facade-commission-carol-bove

Created by the artist Carol Bove (born 1971), The séances aren't helping is the second commission to be featured on the facade of The Met Fifth Avenue. Working improvisationally, Bove sculpts at scale and in the round, without any preparatory drawings. For this commission, she used a one-to-one mock-up of the Museum's empty niches to construct four abstract sculptures made of sandblasted, contorted stainless-steel tubes and five-foot-wide reflective aluminum disks. Despite the weight and heft of these sculptures, they appear astoundingly lithe and supple, almost mercurial—an effect Bove achieves by pushing her materials to their physical limits. Projecting outward from the niches, the works confound perception.
Maya Lin: Ghost Forest

May 10 – November 14, 2021

https://madisonsquarepark.org/art/exhibitions/maya-lin-ghost-forest/

Maya Lin’s Ghost Forest, a towering stand of forty-nine haunting Atlantic white cedar trees, is a newly-commissioned public art work. Lin brings her vision as an artist and her agency as an environmental activist to this project, a memory of germination, vegetation, and abundance and a harsh symbol of the devastation of climate change. The height of each tree, around forty feet, overwhelms human scale and stands as a metaphor of the outsized impact of a looming environmental calamity.

Madison Square Park. Park is bordered by Fifth Avenue & Madison Avenue and 23rd St & 26th St. HOURS: Open daily 6 AM – 12 AM.
